

Acknowledgements

Alberta Learning gratefully acknowledges the many teachers, other individuals and groups who have provided advice and feedback over the course of the development of Teaching Students with Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder, including the following:

- All the individuals and groups who reviewed the field-test draft and provided thoughtful suggestions and comments
- Members of the Special Education Advisory Committee representing:
 - Alberta Association for Community Living
 - Alberta Associations for Bright Children
 - Alberta Home and School Councils' Association
 - Alberta Learning, Adult Learning Division
 - Alberta School Boards Association
 - Alberta Society for the Visually Impaired
 - Alberta Teachers' Association
 - Autism Society of Alberta
 - College of Alberta School Superintendents
 - Council for Exceptional Children (CEC), Alberta Federation
 - Learning Disabilities Association of Alberta
 - Premier's Council on the Status of Persons with Disabilities
 - Signing Exact English
 - Society for the Educational Advancement of the Hearing Impaired
 - University of Alberta, Department of Educational Psychology
- Dr. Gail Andrew, Pediatric Consultant at the Glenrose Rehabilitation Hospital and Dr. Valerie J. Massey, Consulting and Clinical Psychologist, D-V Massey and Associates for reviewing key information in this resource
- Principal writer: Sandra G. Bernstein Clarren, Ph.D.
(see page ii for more information about Dr. Clarren)
- Contributing writers:
 - Children's Services Centre, Red Deer
 - Dwaine M. Souveny, chartered psychologist, Dynamic Networks Psychological Services,
 - Catherine Walker, Alberta Learning
- Illustrator: T.J. Mair
- Editor: Marilyn Tunland
- Index: Judy Dunlop Information Services

Acknowledgments (continued)

- Alberta Learning staff:

Gina Vivone-Vernon, Director, Learning and Teaching Resources Branch
Rick Hayes, Director, Special Programs Branch
Greg Bishop, Team Leader

Lin Hallett and Dianne Moyer, Desktop publishing
Sandra Mukai, Copyright.

About the principal writer, Sandra G. Bernstein Clarren:

Dr. Sandra G. Bernstein Clarren has worked in the field of special education for over 30 years. Initially she has worked as a special education resource teacher and diagnostician in the United States and England. After receiving her doctorate from the University of Washington, she worked as a school psychologist in hospital and school settings and at the Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Diagnostic and Prevention Network at the University of Washington. She is currently a trainer, researcher, presenter, writer and diagnostician in the field of FASD and an educational psychologist in private practice.

Sandra would like to acknowledge individuals with FASD, their families and her colleagues who have been her teachers in learning about the strengths and needs of this special group of children. She also thanks her husband, Sterling Clarren, MD, for reviewing sections of the text related to medical and research issues and discussing many issues related to individuals with FASD.